What has been worked on in the past month?	In the past month, my committee and I have been working on several informative social-media posts to educate students and the wider community about women's issues and how to support feminism. We have been thinking about how we can prepare for the upcoming year and what campaigns are most vital for the new students who will be arriving in October.
Successes from the past month and any Reps Wins	We posted two informative social-media posts, one which was created by our equalities lead on the abolition of the luxury item tax on sanitary products and the issue of period poverty and the other created by myself on the body-neutrality movement. We were so pleased that our equalities lead won committee member of the month and I feel very proud to have all my committee who work so hard and are so passionate!
Plans for next month	In the next month we plan to begin active recruiting for new members because of the start of the new academic year; and with that campaign for safe sex and being safe when using online dating apps like Tinder, which may be more used during this pandemic. We also hope to continuously release more informative social media posts as the month goes on, and begin publishing our collaborative campaign with the BAME campaigns group and Black Feminist Society during Black History month.
