What have you worked on over the past month?

This past month I attended the subject committee meetings for the courses within my school, where I heard from a range of academics and students, who provided student feedback from the various courses including what is going well, and what could perhaps be improved. I also attended the in-person rep hub where we discussed social learning spaces, the SU advice centre, and other general feedback and updates. Finally, I also attended a UoL strategy feedback event where I assisted in the discussions by providing academics with a student view on certain discussion points, such as teaching and engagement.

Successes from the past month and any Representative wins?

A total of 157 Reps attended both the in person and virtual rep hubs which was a strong turnout. Also, the university is looking into creating some more social learning spaces for next year, and thanks to the rep's feedback on what students are wanting from these spaces, the university will be able to create more areas with students' priorities in mind.

What student feedback did you receive this month and how were issues resolved?

This month I received feedback that some second-year students have felt that they have not received enough information on some of the module options for their choices next year. To resolve this, I forwarded the email to the Department head, Farhan who then contacted the relevant course leaders who then kindly set up a final Q and A session. This allowed the students who were still unsure of what options to pick to clear up any questions they had, which allowed them to make more informed decisions on what options to pick for next year.
