

Volunteer Officer Report November 2019

James Bayliss – College of Science Officer

What has been worked on in the past month?

I have been involved in discussions within the college around climate change and what the university and college can do to improve responses to the current climate emergency. I have begun discussions around academic societies, helping to get all schools to have one.

Successes from the past month and any Repts Wins

Engineering have set up an academic society and the new medical school should have one coming soon. PGT Officer should now be receiving meeting invitations to College of Science academic board.

Plans for next month

Get the Medical school academic society set up. Begin talks with Georgia and Abi to see what can be done for academic societies.
