

Volunteer Officer Report October 2018

Thomas Lock – School of Computer Science Rep

What has been worked on in the past month?

I've been gathering feedback from students at all levels in both Computer Science and Games Computing to find out how the start of the year is going. I've attended the first Computer Science Society meeting of the year and several lectures to briefly go over the representation system. I've met and spoken to all reps and gone over their questions and concerns.

Successes from the past month and any Reps Wins

Across the board students are happy with the way that things are going so far. Most first years I've spoken to have an understanding of the representation system and who they should speak to if they have feedback. The first society meeting had over 80 in attendance and the first game jam of the year hit similar numbers.

Plans for next month

Continue to gather feedback from students as the first section of dissertation is handed in and assignments are released. Organise another social with the reps to get to know each other better and boost confidence.
