

University of Lincoln Students' Union Volunteer Officer Report

Lincoln School of Film and Media

What has been worked on in the past month:

Interacting with lecturers and students has been important and essential to gain their honest academic opinions. The course rep tea was interesting as I was able to highlight issues I was facing with my studies and this made fellow students agree and voice their thoughts. Attending the social part of meetings this month such as Rep Forum and student meetings was a high priority.

Successes from the past month:

Speaking to reps within the school and lecturers was a success as conversations were beneficial for me to understand good and bad things happening in the school. However, it was a negative how small the amounts of reps were for the Rep Forum as well as the Academic Reception. I understand that students are busy with studies I just hope they send apologies as I requested they did on our Facebook group page. I was unable to attend the College of Arts Board meeting this month due to my TV practical module with camera script writing; however my lack of organisation I forgot to send apologies. Understandably, Tommy George and Liz Smy called a meeting for all College of Arts reps to discuss improving our organisation of apologies and communication.

Plans for next month:

Arranging contact with the newly elected LSFM school rep that will be taking my position will make them ready for what to expect from the role. Keeping communication with my other school reps for CoA so we are aware of meetings we can attend and remind other to send apologies in advance. Instead a fellow course rep could always take my place if I am unable to go.
