

Volunteer Officer Report October 2018

Emily Challis – School of Architecture & the Built Environment Rep

What has been worked on in the past month?

In the past month there have been issues that have come from changes in the school which have lead to miscommunications between pupils and tutors. This was brought to the attention of the SU and has been actioned appropriately. The communication between staff and students still needs to be improved however it has already come a long way.

Successes from the past month and any Reps Wins

So far we are missing first year reps however the second and third year reps are being very proactive. The reps are engaging with staff and actively talking about problems which is brilliant to see.

Plans for next month

In the next month I would like to like to keep working with tutors to ensure that students are kept up to date with all deadlines/timetabled events. I would also like to work with the director of learning to discuss where it would be appropriate to house a plotter on the four or third floor of NDH and if this is a suitable idea. There needs to be awareness raised about the safety in the fourth floor studio. Students need to be on the ball with tidying up after themselves as the routes to fire exists may be affected as well as posing general hazards- I would like to work with the reps find a way to promote this to students, and I am also in touch with staff about having external appliances PAT tested.
