Issues to be raised at a College level

The main issue which is preventing the start of some of projects is the lack of access to space to store and work on them. Other than this the schools are doing a good job at dealing with any issues at school level as nothing has been raised to a college level.

Another major issue is the fact that I am still waiting on Tommy to take some action and follow up the issues raised through engineering school in December. This is unacceptable to have taken so long and with pressure from the college needs to be dealt with in a quicker time scale.
