

UNIVERSITY OF LINCOLN STUDENTS' UNION President Report

Visibility and Impact

This month has been a relative quiet one within the Union. The main focus has been on elections and the nominations period. I have been engaging with potential candidates for Sabbatical and Volunteer officer positions ahead of the elections period. It's been an opportunity to relay information about the roles and what they entail to ensure that students are well informed when considering running for the officer positions this year.

I have also attended the January graduations this month, which is always an honour. Over 600 students graduated across three graduation ceremonies towards the end of January and I was there in my capacity as both the President of the Students' Union but also as a governor of the University.

I had the opportunity to converse with postgraduate students at the most recent PG Forum. Issues around communication were raised as well as methods to better improve the PG welcome experience, including the PG fayre and other events associated.

I also travelled to the Holbeach campus earlier this month to welcome students enrolling on the programmes at the National Centre for Food Manufacturing. It was an opportunity to inform about the union, our purpose and how best for them to take advantage of the resources we have to hand.
